POWER OUTAGES...ARE YOU PREPARED?

One evening in mid-January a good number of us here in the Foothills lost power for a few hours. As I realized I was lucky to find even one of our many flashlights, futilely digging through our dark barn and camper (with that one little flashlight) looking for the base and wicks for a lantern, it was a great reminder that around here we always need to be prepared for a weather-related electrical outage. It might be snow in the winter, winds knocking down trees in the fall, floods in the spring – every season has its own special weather charms. Our local utilities teams are always on the ball when there is an outage – but as a less-densely-populated rural area, we face additional risks of potentially extended downtimes. It was only a three hour outage last January – but what will it be next time?

For these reasons, it is even more important that all of us in the Foothills take a few minutes to double-check our family's preparedness. Flashlights are a critical first step, as are extra batteries of course. But if it is winter you quickly have to consider how you will stay warm in the case of an extended interruption. If you have well water you have to think about how you will handle water. And if the outage is extended, do you have a plan for food? What about special medical needs you might have? Many of us also have animals to consider. If you have a generator, how will you "feed" and leverage it for maximum value? Avista has additional suggestions. They recommend that you make sure you understand how access in/out of your property might be impacted by a loss of power – for example, how do garage doors and gates operate without electricity?

ARE YOU PREPARED?

That river is looking pretty high – are they prepared?

They also suggest you make sure sensitive electronic devices such as computers and televisions have surge protection to prevent expensive replacements. And always, always remember safety – sometimes our emergency workarounds create new safety risks (cords on floors, open flames, fumes, etc.)

It may be a mild day outside as you are reading this today, and a power outage may seem like a very remote risk. But that makes today the perfect day to dust off your family's emergency outage plan and to see if any of your friends or neighbors need any help with theirs as well!

B-I-N-G-O at the Community Center

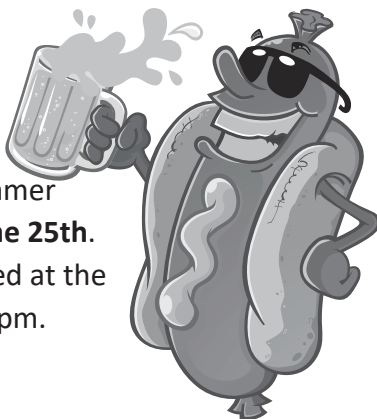

Plan to come to the Community Center at 6:30pm on Saturday March 14th for a fun evening of Bingo with your Foothills neighbors! This will be the third annual FRA Bingo night and is sure to be as much fun as the last two. Each round has prizes, including a final $5 card 50-50 "blackout" round where the cash will be split between the winner and the FRA Scholarship Fund. Snacks and refreshments to help keep up your Bingo energy will be provided. Tell your friends and neighbors - We hope to see you there!

SAVE THE DATE

Summer BBQ & Root Beer Floats

TAKE A HIKE!

At the FRA 2020 annual meeting on January 15th Holly Weiler, FRA vice-president and the Eastern Washington Regional Coordinator for the Washington Trails Association (WTA) gave a lively and informative presentation about the wide variety of local trails that are perfect for hikers of all experience levels. It was a great reminder of how lucky we are here in the Foothills to be in such close proximity to so many well-maintained and accessible places to experience nature. There really is something for everyone. We have the WTA and its cadre of trail-loving volunteers to thank for this. Here are a few of Holly's local suggestions for beginner hikers or snowshoers:

ANTOINE PEAK - easy access, well maintained even in winter. Great wildflowers in late April/early May. 1,100 acres with another 400 being added in 2021 with the Etter Ranch addition.

FERYN RANCH (pronounced "Fern")—very short hike, but a fantastic setting for bird watching. Esp. notable are the redwing blackbirds singing in the spring! Access via drive off of WA 206. Don't forget your binoculars and camera.

LIBERTY LAKE REGIONAL PARK – Split Creek trail is beginner-friendly; very popular for photography. You may need to pay a small fee sometimes during the summer.

DISHMAN HILLS NATURAL AREA – This is expanding every year. There are also notable sub-areas including the Glenrose Unit (which extends the Valley all the way to the South Hill!); Iller Creek (amazing views!); Big Rocks/Rocks of Sharon (Stevens Creek).

Holly pointed out that the WTA website (wta.org) is full of resources including trail maps and search functions that enable you to find possible trails that meet your needs in terms of difficulty, length, type, and location (select "Eastern Washington" for local options). You can even use the WTA website (and Trailblazer app) to submit your own trip report after you hike on one of the trails. The WTA organization was built on grassroots information sharing between caring citizens starting with its founding in 1966 and that continues today as the largest state-based hiker advocacy and volunteer organization in the country. Spokane is one of the WTA's top four focus areas across the state, so let's get out there and check out a few trails in 2020!

MCKENZIE CONSERVATION AREA – 1.5m loop; great for kids. You can walk from the trailhead to the lake.

MT. SPOKANE STATE PARK – It's not just for skiing! December through March requires a SnoPark pass; Discover Pass for the rest of the year. A great mix of both easy and very strenuous trails are available. See the mountspokane.org website for maps and descriptions.

RIVERSIDE STATE PARK – Bowl & Pitcher is the most famous, but there are many more trails at Riverside. Also holds Wednesday in the Woods summer events on a variety of nature-related topics.

CALL FOR SCHOLARSHIPS APPLICATIONS!

Each year the Foothills Rural Association and Blue Ribbon Circle collaborate on the Jess Kronquist scholarship program, resulting in tens of thousands of dollars of scholarship funding to impressive, hard-working Foothills residents who are continuing their educations. In 2020 we will again be awarding up to $3,000 in educational funding. Any resident within the boundaries of Fire District 9 Station 6 who is/will be enrolled in an educational program at an accredited academic institution is eligible.

The application process is simple: Complete the form (included in this newsletter and also posted on the FRA website ruralspokane.com); write the essay specified on the application; obtain a copy of your latest academic transcript (unofficial copies are perfectly okay). Email (or physically mail or drop off) the 3 documents to the address provided. Finalists will also be required to participate in a short in-person interview with the scholarship committee at the Community Center on the evening Thursday May 14th.

So if you are a Foothills resident who is pursuing further education and can participate in the May 14th interviews, please consider applying to this year's program! We would love to support you. Questions can be directed to Dr. Dawn Keig, scholarship committee chair, at dawn.keig@gmail.com or 808-4076.
